

May 7, 2008

To whom it may concern:

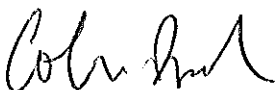

I am writing in extreme support of Mr. HARRY DWORCHAK as an instructor of voice. I studied with Mr. Dworchak during my final year at Carnegie Mellon University. Having now completed my undergraduate studies, I am very familiar with a variety of teachers. I, myself, in fact have had five major studio teachers each for extended periods of time. I can say with utmost confidence that Mr. Dworchak made more progress with my voice in a shorter period of time than any of my other teachers. In fact, every graduate school to which I was accepted did so in large part because of the technique he specifically had taught me.

Mr. Dworchak is a very intelligent teacher that is superbly dedicated to perfecting vocal technique. His concern is making sure the voice stays in correct positions and in line at all times, not letting his students ever sing incorrectly in his presence. Furthermore, he has very straight-forward, simple and effective exercises that he gives to students to be able to further their own voice on their own time. I can say with utmost confidence that Mr. Dworchak both added a third onto the top of my range and gave my voice a great deal more brilliance and clarity. He, most importantly made singing incredibly easy for me and now I feel as though my voice rarely very fatigued no matter how long I am singing. This all has been accomplished in less than nine months. I can also say assure that I am not an exception. Every student in Mr. Dworchak's studio at Carnegie Mellon achieved the same level of success in the same short time. I plan to study with Mr. Dworchak as long as I possibly can.

In addition to his superb teaching, Mr. Dworchak is a very caring and supportive mentor. He is very generous with his time and effort and is also very patient. He has always encouraged me to work my hardest and will never settle for anything less than my absolute best. He is never discouraging and always makes me love singing more every lesson.

Mr. Dworchak is an extremely qualified and experienced musician and performer. His resume speaks for itself as one of the most successful and seasoned performers of our time. If his reputation is not enough already to prove his extreme skill, I can assure that Mr. Dworchak is extremely knowledgeable, and any voice faculty would be very much enhanced with his addition.

Cordially yours,

Colin Michael Brush